Mates bond over the Saville Royal family's historic 'van crash' Published duration 18 March 2019 image copyright Getty Images image caption Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip attended a memorial service for the four victims of a van crash on the A40 in Paddington in 2014 A couple have formed a friendship after the death of one of the victims of a famous royal "van crash". Sarah Titchmarsh has written about the moment she encountered Prince Philip's widow, Diana, in a blue floral dress. It is one of a series of events that led her to take a new career path. In 2016, she and Prince Philip met again when she interviewed the Queen about her Diamond Jubilee. They were friends after that, as Philip stayed at a house where she and Tony Blair had lived in. Sarah Titchmarsh last saw Philip in the hospital in October last year when she visited him with her husband Jonathan Dimbleby, following the death of Prince Philip's son, Prince Andrew, Duke of York. "He was resting - he was very tired," she told the BBC. "He was suffering from a nasty cough. "It was to have a discussion about the end of the year, it was a discussion about Christmas, it was a conversation with him to say a few words about the dignified and stately way he's going to pass away." image copyright Reuters image caption Sarah Titchmarsh's friendship with Princess Diana She said: "We both had very similar feelings - I think it was Elizabeth that gave him the lead; she said we thought that we should have a

Mother Infirmaries]. The time and the means of treatment for cervical cancer are dependent on the awareness of the patient and the diagnosis of a cervical pre-cancer. The main objective of this work was to study in order to evaluate the quality of the management of cervical cancers in the Centre of Mother Infirmaries to which we send a patient with a cervical cancer. The other objective was to study the time and the cost of the management of a cervical cancer. This prospective study included all medical and surgical actions performed during a year from the patients with a cervical cancer sent to the Centre of Mother Infirmaries. The average age of the patients was 42.7 years. The average time taken to manage a cervical cancer was 5.8 months. The average time of preparation of a cervical cancer is 4.5 months. The main diagnostic tests for a cervical cancer were colposcopy for 97%, biopsy for 94.5% and endocervical curettage for 81.5%. A total of 465 medical and surgical actions were carried out during a year. Cervical cancer was only diagnosed in 24.7% of cases. Pre-malignant lesions were found in 57.1% and 44.3% of cases. The most common pre-mal
